MESSAGE FROM THE AMERICAN HOSPITAL OF PARIS LEADERSHIP

Dear Friends of the American Hospital of Paris and its Foundation,

As a French-American not-for-profit and private teaching institution, the American Hospital of Paris aims to bring together, in a single location in Paris, the best in French and American medical practices and innovations.

In medicine, like any other field, progress always comes from the sharing of ideas, experience and skills. That is why the American Hospital of Paris has considerably reinforced its academic relationships with French and U.S. institutions, such as NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital and its affiliated university medical schools, Columbia University Irving Medical Center and Weill Cornell Medicine.

Through this ambitious medical exchange program, we are developing innovative medical and administrative partnerships, to give our patients access to exclusive, proven technologies, therapies and practices that are recognized in the U.S. by the highest scientific and medical authorities. This model of medicine is unique in the world.

Thank you for supporting this pioneering program and for helping the American Hospital of Paris fulfill its founding mission of delivering the highest standards in both French and American healthcare.

THE AMERICAN HOSPITAL OF PARIS

View of the future flagship building of the American Hospital of Paris

Since its creation in 1906, the American Hospital of Paris has remained committed to providing the best medical care and patient experience possible to its French and international patients.

Our global expertise combines the most innovative investigative technologies, state-of-the-art treatment techniques and individualized care, all within a single facility. This ensures our patients receive personalized treatments within minimal timeframes.

The American Hospital of Paris is the only hospital in the world to have dual accreditation from France's Haute Autorité de Santé and the U.S. Joint Commission, providing the highest standards of safety and quality of care to its patients.

As a private, not-for-profit organization, the American Hospital of Paris receives no subsidies from the French or American government, relying on revenues from operations and on the generosity of patients, donors and patrons in order to continue its mission of bringing together the best in French and American medicine. For the fifth consecutive year, the American Hospital of Paris is France's top-ranking health care institution in terms of patient satisfaction, according to the Haute Autorité de Santé.

THE AMERICAN HOSPITAL OF PARIS' FRANCO-AMERICAN MEDICAL EXCHANGE PROGRAM

This program fosters collaboration in clinical practice, research, and education between our hospital and distinguished medical institutions in the United States: NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital, Columbia University Irving Medical Center, Weill Cornell Medicine and Brigham and Women's Hospital.

We are proud to currently have 17 different areas of partnerships with these institutions in the following medical specialties: obstetrics, imaging, orthopedics, preventative medicine, genetics, gastroenterology, plastic surgery, cardiology, in vitro fertilization, pain, breast, urology, head & neck, pediatrics and gynecology.

The program has various goals:

- Increase exchange opportunities for doctors, nurses, technicians, administrators and students;
- Provide medical students and medical professionals with cross-cultural professional development opportunities;
- Increase medical research projects with U.S. affiliates;
- Leverage our annual Harvey Cushing Symposium and Academic Series to foster Franco-American medical community.
