

The American Hospital of Paris Foundation

*Friends from France and the U.S. hailed to New York City to salute
The American Hospital of Paris
For their extraordinary accomplishments and ability to bridge our two worlds, building solid Franco-American relationships.*

NEW YORK, NY--- On June 6, 2022, The American Hospital of Paris Foundation held a festive cocktail reception at a private home in New York City, benefiting the Hospital in Paris, France.

Fifty guests from New York and Paris enjoyed a lively cocktail reception and program hosted by the American Hospital of Paris Foundation's Board members Francine LeFrak and Rick Friedberg and Joan and Frank Ginsberg. The program's speakers highlighted the Hospital as a unique institution in France that has, for over a century, been the meeting ground for the shared collaboration of French and U.S. medical exchange, science, and excellence.

Guests included in the celebration were friends and supporters as well as the leadership from the Hospital in France and the Foundation in the U.S., including Donna Chapman, Laura Yockey, Claude Wasserstein, Stephane Roussel, Robert Sigal, Gerry Ohrstrom, Elizabeth Stribling & Guy Robinson, Christiane & Jean Claude Gruffat. In addition, John & Margo Catsimatidis, Ray & Veronica Kelly, Donna & Richard Soloway, Lauren Day Roberts, Barbara Tober, Stewart Lane, Nicole Sexton, Susan Gutfreund, Rema Dupont, and Liz Elting were part of the evening's festivities.

As a private, not-for-profit organization, the American Hospital of Paris receives no subsidies from the French or American governments, relying on revenues from operations and on the generosity of patients, donors, and patrons.
